

ELSA LAW REVIEW CALL FOR PAPERS

Topic: 75 Years of ECHR – Shaping Human Rights in Europe and Beyond

In 2025, we mark 75 years since the signing of the European Convention on Human Rights (ECHR) - a cornerstone of European legal order and a defining instrument in the protection of human rights.

To commemorate this landmark, the ELSA Law Review invites contributions for an issue titled ‘75 Years of ECHR: Shaping Human Rights in Europe and Beyond.’

We seek articles that take a closer look at how the European Convention on Human Rights has shaped law and society - both in the past and today. This could mean exploring how the Convention is put into practice in different countries, how it has influenced national laws and constitutions, or its evolving interpretation by the European Court of Human Rights. We welcome thoughtful reflections, critical analysis, and real-world insights into the Convention’s legal impact and its role in protecting rights across Europe and beyond.

We invite contributions on topics such as:

- How the Convention has shaped human rights protections across Europe;
- The practical challenges in implementing the ECHR at the national level;
- The evolving role of the Court’s case law;
- How national courts apply the Convention and what that means for individuals seeking justice;
- The ECHR’s influence beyond Europe;
- The Convention’s future in a time of shifting politics, threats to the rule of law, and emerging digital rights issues.

Deadline for Submissions: 22nd June 2025
