What June gave us

Annual Reception of ELSA

For the first time ever, the Annual Reception of ELSA took place virtually and reached more than 15,000 viewers, with 2,963 unique viewers and top audience women between 18-24. The Annual Reception was for the first time based on a thematic (“The future of law”) and gave birth to a lot of interesting discussions, which we will soon share with all of you!

Framework Agreement with the Alumni Association of ELSA

The first framework agreement of ELSA & ELSA Alumni has been signed. It’s focusses?

- The promotion of commonly organised activities and the cooperation in the respective projects of each association;
- The cooperation of the two associations in campaigns which foster the vision of ELSA;
- The pro-bono support of ELSA by ELSA Alumni;
- The fundraising support of ELSA Alumni towards ELSA;

As more and more National Alumni Associations are currently created, we would be incredibly happy to talk about the agreement and share some of its pillars with you. Do not hesitate to approach me at president@elsa.org.

New International Board of ELSA

Last but not least, June gave us the most important thing, the new International Board of ELSA, with which we will be working over the month of July, in Brussels.

Foci of July

- Completing the first draft of the Annual Report of ELSA, alongside my colleagues;
- The transition of ELSA International 2020/2021 will include:
 - Training sessions on: creativity, negotiation, strategic planning, leadership styles;
 - Discussions on: the Network and communication, personal health and balance with professional pressure
 - Brainstorming on: External Relations' Strategy, Expansion Strategy;
 - Creation of the BEE Calendar 2020/2021;
 - Creation of the Strategic Plan Implementation Strategy for the next term;
 - Complete handover of the campaigns of ELSA International on the Rule of Law education and the Artificial Intelligence
 - Workshops on Wera's Candidacy plan and the implementation of her and her board's ideas in the next term.

....and many other sessions, joint and individual ones.

BEE Toolkit

Transition Checklist

The time of another transition period has come! Which are your tips & tricks? What is the most important knowledge that every BEE officer needs to have? What kind of tools should we utilise during the transition period? We created the BEE Transition Checklist for the very first-time last August and now it's time to update it. Find it here and approach us at coordinator.beetoolkit@elsa.org.

What is the value of the BEE Newsletter?

Closing the year would not be the same if I did not share with all of you what was the hidden value behind the BEE Newsletter. I initiated the Newsletter with one idea; to make our communication more engaging. To create bonds and birth proactiveness from your side. In the BEE Newsletter, however, I have seen many values:

- Transparency in our relationship;
- Communication of external opportunities – a good idea for partner benefits;
- Awareness of the aims of ELSA International and of the importance of BEE as an area that evolves locally, nationally, and internationally, with and without a hierarchy.

For all those reasons, I encourage you to invest in communication with your officers and make them feel as a part of an open, transparent, and engaging community.

A community that resembles a big family!
